August 11th – explora in the vineyard

When we heard adventure travel specialists explora were set to add to their South American portfolio with a Chilean wine programme at the CV Family Estates in the Alto Cachapoal Valley, we raised a glass. Set to complement a trip to any of their properties in Atacama, Patagonia or Easter Island, the one or two day excursion to the Vina Porta winery combines vineyard tours with tasting sessions and walks through the estate.

Bed down in Casa Porta, a 19th century colonial-style house and now a five bed boutique hotel with its own underground cellar and barrel room wine bar to enjoy the seclusion and valley views from the estate's private grounds - with glass in hand of course.
